

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XXI. STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1893. NO. 63

Bobbitt in the Mountains.

PINEVILLE, BELL COUNTY, Oct. 4.—Circuit court convened here yesterday with a full jail and a full docket. 'Tis alarming to think of the amount of crimes that are stalking forth by moonlight. The time will come when anarchy will reign in a country where there is too much liberty. Judge Hall's instructions to the grand jury were quite able and most exhaustive. I am well acquainted with the judge, having crossed swords with him in the bloody Harlan county murder cases.

I am stopping at the Madison Hotel. The landlady so clever, so elegant. The proprietor is from Madison county and no objection could be alleged against him except that his name is an old hog's little boy (Pigg).

I like Pineville so much. The scenery here on the grand old Cumberland is most grand. Had not old nature cut a way to let the river out, there would have been a lake here almost as high as Lake Titicaca. In reality, in history, in geography or in imagination I have stood upon the lofty Alps, the watch towers of creation, and gazed upon the great works of nature as they came fresh and vigorous from the plastic hand, and I never saw anything so grand, so sublime. Some of the peaks here are almost as inaccessible as the Jang Fran or the Matter Horn.

I have pointed out to the people here what they say they had never observed a huge Indian Chief upon the very summit of the mountain. 'Tis a rude effort of nature at statuary. The immense head, the nose, the mouth, the chin, the eyebrows, the receding forehead worn bare by the storms of time. How many decades of centuries has that chieftain of the mountains looked up into sometimes a clear sky and often the dark storm cloud, that lowered in such close proximity to his head. How often has the angry thunderbolt smitten the majestic chieftain in the face. If ever inanimate stone spoke, that old man of the mountains speaks to me. Older than the Sphinx of Egypt, he looks over the plain of ages, wave after wave of time, rolling away till they break on the shores of eternity. That old mountain chieftain was here before the Red Man was, after whom nature sculptured him. He saw the advent of the Red Man, he saw him driven away by the white man. What store of knowledge in that rocky cranium! But in his eternal silence he refuses to impart his information to man. No device of man, no Spanish inquisition can ever extort from him the information locked up in his stony breast. Nature is giving his face a good washing to-night whilst his head is wreathed in spectral mists. But I will leave the old Sachem to his eternal sleep, whilst I betake myself to my temporary one.

FOUNTAIN, FOX, BOBBITT.

HUBBLE.

—Underwood Bros. bought two fine jennets in Madison.
—A telegram from Henry White tells his father that he is on his way to visit him.
—Dr. Lewis reports a very bad case of sore throat at Mrs. Betsy Spoonamore's. It is hoped that it will not turn out to be diphtheria.
—R. L. Hubble sold to Wayne parties 14 yearling mules at $40. S. M. Spoonamore is talking of renting his farm here and going to Louisville for a few days.

—The school boys are talking of putting in a bid to carry the mail from Hubble to Lancaster. M. E. Cox was down to see us last week. He is going to sell his property Monday in Stanford and go to New Mexico for his health.
—Tom Hubble and family, of Chattanooga, have been visiting here for a few days. He is a brother of Hamilton Hubble, who once sold goods here. Catherine Blackerby is reported better. Ben Owsley has been very sick. Julius Leon of Louisville, is visiting S. Dunbar for a few weeks.

Of the Heywood Celebrities, the bright lights of opera, comedy and concert, the Huntville, Ala., Daily Argus says: "The performance was grand and endorements were frequent to all of which the gentlemen and ladies of the company gracefully responded. We need not go into detail touching the merits of this matchless combination, suffice it to say their performance was the most recherche affair witnessed here in years, and our citizens are ready to tender a vote of thanks to Manager Kraus in appreciation of his discriminating good taste in bringing Heywood's Celebrities to this city."

At Walton's Opera House, Saturday night, Oct. 7.
—Frank Ostermer, of Lafayette, Ind., laboring under the hallucination that he had been called on to make sacrifices for the cause of Christ, had all of his hogs killed and buried. This seemed to content him for a while, but later on he stated his intention to sacrifice his children by killing them one by one. He was then very promptly placed in an insane asylum.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Eld. J. C. Frank's condition remains unchanged and he is still confined to his room.

—Henry Clay Jennings and family have moved to the Marris property on Richmond street.

—Lucien D. Noel has entered the Theological Seminary at Louisville and will study for the Presbyterian ministry.

—Mr. L. H. Hardin, of Shelbyville, and Miss Dottie Brown were married at the home of the bride near Antioch, Wednesday. They left immediately after the ceremony for his home.

—John Smith and Sweetie Gill, two negroes, had a fight on Battle Row Monday night and the former was knocked in the head with a brick and the latter cut in the neck, missing the jugular vein about half an inch. Both are badly hurt but will get well.

—The democratic county committee will meet to-morrow, Saturday, to select a candidate for county school superintendent. The candidates are Mr. John L. Anderson, who now holds the office, and Mr. O. T. Wallace, both of whom are capable men for the place.

—Mr. H. C. Payne, of Fayette county and Miss Maggie Hopper, were married at the home of the bride, on Richmond street, Thursday morning at 7 o'clock. They took the 8 o'clock train for the home of the groom, near Lexington. Their many friends wish them all joy and happiness.

DANVILLE.

(Advocate.)

—Eld. Mark Collis will begin a meeting here Monday.

—The new registration shows that Danville is still democratic.

—H. E. Woolfolk, of the Advocate, was elected councilman in the place of Hubert McGoodwin, resigned.

—The primary election to decide whether or not Logan Caldwell or J. M. VanMeter will be the democratic candidate for county judge takes place Saturday. Messrs. Hay and Rawlings will be nominated for representative and superintendent, respectively, without opposition.

—G. A. Swinebroad sold Porter Sandridge 100 wethers at 2 1/2c. T. D. Tadlock sold Owsley Evans a good suckling mare and foal for $85. E. McCormack shipped Saturday a car-load of cattle bought at 2 1/2c and a car-load of lambs bought at 3 to 3 1/2c. W. H. Prewitt bought a lot of 900-pound heifers from Porter Sandridge and Billy Wright at 2 1/2c, eight 850-pound cattle of John Murphy at 2 3/4c and a bunch of 300-pound hogs from Joe Coffey at 6c.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—London has no town marshal and doesn't need any.

—Circuit court is now in session, but so far no important cases have been tried.

—J. T. Brown has let a contract to build an additional brick store adjoining his present one.

—Mrs. T. P. Caldwell, Jackson Givens and H. V. Pennington have been appointed on the medical board of pension examiners located here.

—P. F. Stillings, of London, and Miss Jane Broddus, of Richmond, were married at that place Tuesday. Pet kept it so quiet that I hardly believe it is so yet.

—Mrs. Catherine Fitzgerald, of New York City, shot and killed her neighbor, Mrs. John Pearsell, because the latter had started a damaging report on her.

—By a freight running into a switch engine in the yards at Carthage, Ohio, three persons were killed and many were injured. Both of the engines, which belonged to the C. C. C. & St. Louis road, were completely demolished, together with eight freight cars.

—A southeastern gale from the Gulf of Mexico drove the water into Mobile and flooded the lower part four feet deep, doing thousands of dollars of damage to the wholesale and much of the retail districts. The storm along the coast was very severe and a number of casualties are reported.

—The L. & N.'s annual reports show a mileage of 2,600 miles and no increases in the capital stock during the year. The bonded debt is $75,497,660. The gross earnings during the year were $22,403,639.25; operating expenses $4.20 per cent., or $14,382,642.45; net earnings $2,530,200.33. Two cash dividends of 2 per cent. were declared on Jan. 9 and July 10 respectively, aggregating $2,112,000, leaving a surplus of $410,551.52.

—According to a new law which went into effect October 3d, the property rights of married women are greatly enlarged. Formerly a married woman could not dispose of her property by will unless with the consent of her husband, but now she may make a will whether he objects or not. The new law also gives her control of her real estate. Marriage shall not give to the husband, during the life of the wife, any estate or interest in her real estate, including chattels, real, owned at the time of marriage.

ROWLAND.

—Messrs. T. L. Shelton, T. W. Hamilton, J. W. Carrier and their ladies will attend the L. O. O. F. celebration at Lexington next Tuesday.

—J. E. Elmore has recovered from the injuries inflicted by the L. & N. collision last week, but Arthur Pearce will likely be confined to his room for several weeks.

—Eld. Stephen Collier and W. E. Ellis have been conducting a protracted meeting at this place, since Sunday. Much interest is being manifested and it is to be hoped that considerable good will be done. At this writing there has been five conversions.

—J. P. Kearns has moved his family to Lebanon Junction. Martin Kearns has sold his stock in his saloon to T. L. Shelton, who will continue to run it in connection with his hotel. Kearns has gone to Lebanon to accept a lucrative position. He is a kind, warm-hearted man and has a host of friends here. A famous railroad man with a red head is having his house between here and Stanford painted red and it is believed he is preparing to wed a red-haired lady.

—The untimely death of Hon. W. H. Miller for senator of this district. His allegiance to his party, his experience at the bar and in legislative assemblies render him altogether worthy to fill the place. He is a man who knows how to ignore his own personal views and do that which the majority of his constituents desire shall be done. The ranks are also unbroke for W. F. McClary for school superintendent. His official career is pure and untarnished and he never knew how to scratch a ticket. It is safe to say that they will both be elected by large majorities.

LIBERTY.

—The venerable banjoist, Mat Book, now 72 years old, is at Wilkinson's hotel.

—Tyler Jasper, of this county, is the prohibition nominee for representative in Casey and Russell counties.

—Ed Mitchum, charged with burglarizing Dr. Hammonds' house at Danville, was tried before Judge Myers, as an examining court, on last Saturday and held for his appearance at the next term of the Casey circuit court in the sum of $200.

—The Hon. W. H. Miller, of Stanford, democratic nominee for the State Senate in this district, accompanied by Hon. R. C. Warren, of the same city, has been at Prescott's hotel circulating familiarly with Casey's sovereigns. He appears in fine spirits and hopes for a favorable result at the November election.

—There was a strike on Monday among Duff Portman's road hands headed by Judge Myers and Ex-Judge J. Boyle Stone, which threatened formidable proportions on Tuesday, but serious consequences were happily prevented by the heavy rains scattering the hands to their homes. It was not a strike for higher wages, but was said to have been caused by the overseer ordering the distinguished leaders to do the menial work of digging in the ditches. We sympathize with the overseer and hope he'll come out on top.

HUSTONVILLE.

—Mr. Ed Staggs is quite ill.
—Since the protracted rains the grass is wearing another hue of beautiful green.

—The store room of John Riffe caught fire Monday evening, caused from a lamp explosion, but little damage was done as it was soon extinguished.

—Quite a number of our people will visit Chicago before the great Fair closes. Mrs. Helen Huffman and Mellie Hopper went over to Lancaster Wednesday to witness the marriage of Miss Maggie Hopper. Mrs. Lee F. Huffman came over from Lexington Saturday and returned Tuesday.

—We are glad the corn cutting time is about over and the big yellow grains are safe. We are glad the wheat crop is abundant, though the price of grain is low. We are glad the tobacco is securely wintered. We are glad because those who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow both deserve and need the fruits of their labor. Another pleasant thought is that this will bring money to the owners and thus enable them to pay their debts. All this will go a long way toward tiding over the hard time. Right here we enjoin you to remember the printer and pay him what you owe him or you will never be happy again.

—The director of works, Barnham, makes the startling suggestion that the World's Fair buildings should be burned down, as the easiest way to get rid of them. He thinks that excursions could be arranged to see the burnings and money enough be made from the sale of the tickets to pay all expenses of removal and putting the grounds in order. He would have one building burned each night. The burning of the liberal arts building he thinks would attract people from a dozen States.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—The Synod of Kentucky, Southern Presbyterian, will meet Oct. 11 in Winchester.

—Eld. J. S. Sweeney has just been elected pastor of the Christian church at Paris, for the 24th consecutive year.

—A religious debate between a Campbellite elder and a Baptist deacon is shaking Charleston, Mo., as an earthquake.

—Rea J. I. Wills closed his meeting at Mt. Heburn, Garrard county, with 36 additions; 35 by confession, and one by relation.

—Students continue to pour into the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. Wednesday the number had passed 200 and continues to increase.

—The Bates Creek Association of United Baptists offer $50 reward for their minute book. It was lost eight years ago. The last heard of it was at Lancaster, where a gentleman had it borrowed.

—Richmond Climax.
—Rev. W. A. Slaymaker and Elders H. C. Farris and A. C. Sine, with a number of ladies, went to the jail yesterday and assisted in receiving Mack Ferrill into the Presbyterian church, after he had made confession and was duly baptized. His family was present, including his gray haired mother, whose tears of joy and sorrow forced them from every eye present. Mr. Ferrill will be taken to Frankfort in a day or two to serve his life sentence.

—Another step in the organization of a Christian Endeavor Society was taken at the Presbyterian church Wednesday night, when Mr. P. M. McRoberts was chosen temporary president and J. Warren Hocker, secretary. The latter, however, declined without even expressing thanks for the honor and Mr. A. C. Sine was elected. On motion of Rev. W. A. Slaymaker the president appointed a committee on by-laws as follows: Misses Lucy Johns, Georgie Wray, Essie Burch and Messrs. Slaymaker and W. H. Higgins. It was decided to meet at the same church next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock to hear the report of the committee and effect a permanent organization. Several new members were obtained, running the number now to 32 and each was asked to bring at least one other recruit.

GARNER.—Mr. L. D. Garner died at 6 o'clock Monday morning, Sept. 18th, 1893, from injuries received the day before by his horse falling upon him.

It is seldom that it ever becomes our duty to chronicle the death of anyone who will be so badly missed in so many relations in life. As a citizen he was in the highest degree upright and honorable. As a christian he was faithful and conscientious, ever ready to give to his church of his substance, his time and his talent. He was at the time of his death a member of the Baptist church at Crab Orchard. His seat was always filled and he ever took the deepest interest in everything that looked to the welfare of his church. His house was always the pastor's home.

He was the father of ten children and he had the happy faculty of governing without seeming to govern. In his home, as elsewhere, he was an exceedingly quiet and unostentatious man, but his character was so well rounded and he was so well poised that he called forth not only the affection but also the respect and obedience of all his children from the least to the greatest. As to what he was as a husband we feel that we may not speak. The subject is too sacred to be thus profaned. This much may be truly said: "No one ever entered that home but to leave it with a higher regard for the sacredness of the marriage relation." They seemed to have caught the spirit of Paul when under inspiration he wrote: "Nevertheless, let every one of you in particular so love his wife, even as himself, and the wife see that she reverence her husband." N.

—Mrs. Luke Blackburn is in Louisville and told a reporter that her letter with reference to Col. Breckinridge introducing Miss Pollard to her as his fiancée was genuine and that she still stood by it.

—At Columbus, Ohio, Mrs. Louis Iborgh, was placed in jail for murdering her son. A younger son informed the police that she did the awful deed so as to get the money which had been left him by his father.

—The C. & O. railroad company has so far failed to put on separate coaches for whites and blacks, according to the new law. General Agent Mitchell says he has never been notified to make provision for such a division.

—Whitcapping is not cutting such a wide swath nowadays in Indiana as it once did. The grand jury at Columbus returned true bills of indictment against twelve prominent citizens of the county for whipping Mrs. Schrader.

—The Secretary of State has brought suit to put the Farmers Bank of Mt. Sterling in the hands of a receiver, the new law giving him that right when he thinks such institutions are insolvent or becoming so. It is the first suit of the kind ever brought.

For Representative,

For Superintendent of Public Schools,

W. F. McCLARY.

The laws of heredity seem to be inexorable. In his younger days Rodas Thompson, a son of that elegant old gentleman, P. Henry Thompson, of Fayette, ran off and married a woman far below him in social station and against the earnest wishes of his parents. She proved as they had suspected and when Mr. Thompson died suddenly a short time after having his life insured for her benefit, the insurance company charged her with conspiring to his death. Since then she has gone from bad to worse and the worst of it is that her son, Rodas, has followed in her footsteps. He is an all-around bad boy, with no pride of family and is often in trouble. Recently he shot a frail woman named Mattie Crabtree, who he thought was not as true as she ought to have been to him. He was arrested and on being tried for a felony the jury disagreed. Then he pleaded guilty of a less offense and was given three months in jail and fined $400. Verily blood will tell as much in the human race as in the animal kingdom.

The State Board of Health is preparing to take vigorous steps for the enforcement of the new law relating to the registration of physicians. The startling announcement was made that a third of the practitioners of the State are doing so illegally, a large percentage of whom are illiterate. The new law provides that a doctor must have a diploma from some reputable medical college or pass an examination if he has lost it, and be vouched for as to his good standing in the profession. The board is determined that quacks, charlatans and empiricists must go, at least that is what it claims, but it looks very much like it intends to use the law to enforce the silly code of ethics, which prohibits a doctor from paying for advertising for practice and at the same time gives each all the rope he wants to work a newspaper for free advertising. If such be the case the new law will soon be brought into the contempt it deserves and efforts for its repeal be made before the incoming Legislature.

SENATOR MORGAN is a hater. His speech before the Senate opposing the repeal of the Sherman silver bill is about as bitter against Cleveland as that other hater, Stewart, of Nevada. Morgan's speech was full of high sounding words, spoken to catch the thoughtless and obtain applause from the groundlings, but sifted down it is worse than that of the average cross roads politician and his people ought, for this sole offense, if no other, retire him as "an ambassador from a sovereign State" and make him "like a cricket and a mouse, run into a hole to conceal himself."

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is not the man to accept heresy evidence when he can test the matter with his own optics. He had read so much about Marie Jansen's beautiful limbs that he went to the theatre the other night just to see them. His opinion is not made public, but we have it from pretty good authority of her own sex that while nature has done much for Marie, art has done more. In other words it is openly charged that her beautiful thighs are padded and things are not, in her case more than in others always what they seem.

GOV. MCKINLEY shows that he is afraid to meet Larry Neal in joint debate. The latter challenged him to discuss the issues in the gubernatorial contest together, but the protective tariff advocate imposed so many conditions that it was as bad as refusing altogether. The Ohio campaign is waxing warm and the chances are daily becoming more favorable for the democratic standard bearer, who wrote and still advocates with all his strength the tariff plank of the National platform.

AFTER balloting a week and being no nearer a nomination than at the start, the democratic convention at Jackson adjourned without naming a candidate for the Senate. Senator A. H. Hargis was tendered the nomination but declined the honor, which the other men sought so strongly that neither would withdraw for the sake of harmony.

THE committee on Federal Relations finds there is no reason why J. J. Van Alen should not be confirmed as Ambassador to Italy. The only charge brought against Mr. Van Alen is that he contributed liberally of his means to democratic success and if that is a bar to office, the mugwumps have indeed brought things to a h—hades of a pass.

A LOUISVILLE judge has decided that if the playing of progressive euchre is an offense at all, which he doubts, it is a misdemeanor only and as such the grand jury can take no cognizance of it. Thus do great judges differ and bring an already ridiculous enactment into further ridicule. As the Courier-Journal aptly says in progressive euchre the prize is bought and furnished by the host or hostess, who in "setting up the game" does not do so for "profit" and cannot gain profit therefrom. The host or hostess does not play. Is it a game of chance for those who do play? Do they contribute to the game either money or valuables and if they do not is it a game of chance with them? The one who does win is given a prize for expert playing and neither the giver nor the receiver is any more culpable under the Wortham act than is the premium taken in a bread-baking contest at a country fair.

THE storm and tidal wave on the Gulf Coast was ten times more fatal and destructive than at first reported. About 2,000 people are thought to have lost their lives and the devastation is terrific. Plaquemine and Jefferson parishes, Louisiana, suffer most and fully a fourth of their population are among the killed. The bayous, swamps and lakes are filled with corpses and wreckage and the scene is one never before witnessed in this country. Fishing boats to the number of 120 are missing and the property loss is fully $5,000,000, of which the L. & N. railroad is the greatest sufferer. The storm came while most of its victims were asleep, to be aroused in time to meet a horrible death.

SENATOR BLACKBURN spoke against the repeal of the Sherman law prefacing his remarks with the unnecessary assurance that he didn't know much about financial matters. It was much better that he should have doubted and been damned than to have flown so strongly in the face of the public demand for a repeal of the miserable make-shift after dallying so long. But our senior senator can't stem the tide. Both the House of Lords and his constituents know that he talks with his mouth without any effort at thought.

CHARLEY MEACHAM, of the Hopkinton Kentuckian, who keeps tally of the lynchings, says that there have been 86 so far this year, the record of September being the biggest ever known. The resort to mob law is daily getting more common and is chiefly attributable to the law's delay and the uncertainty of punishment.

In the absence of other more interesting editorial matter, Mr. Walter Emerson is wont to fill up his column in the Covington Commonwealth with "His Personal Experience," which while perhaps good enough for one publication, becomes monotonous by its repetition. Have it put in another column, Bro. Emerson.

THERE is worse than no connection at Junction City now. The Q. & C. trains South are nearly always late and not once a week hardly do we get the Cincinnati papers the day they are published. The ill-feeling between the two roads is attuned for by the public, who ought to have some redress at law.

THE prohibitionists hold their own in Barren county. At the election Monday they carried it by 500 majority, evidently satisfied after 12 years of trial that prohibition can be made to prohibit.

ONLY 13 members of the last Legislature have any show of re-election to the next and some of them ought to be left at home. Verily the trail of the serpent hangs over nearly all of them.

NEWSY NOTES.

—G. C. Everett has been appointed postmaster at Mt. Sterling.

—W. B. Haywood was nominated for the Senate in the 12th district.

—A single sentence in a speech of Senator Faulkner the other day contained 257 words.

"All human history attests that happiness for man—the hungry sinner—since Eve ate apples, much depends on dinner." And a good dinner is absolutely essential for appreciating a good dinner. Lord Byron knew that he was a good dinner. "Gad, man!" his lordship would say, "why don't one of these internal doctors invent a liver medicine?" Byron would never have asked that question were he now living. Why? Because he would have been using Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, an absolutely sure cure for Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of liver, stomach and bowels. There's no griping or violence about these pills, and they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is refunded. Perhaps some of our readers would like to know in what respect Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better than any other. We will tell you. When this remedy is taken as soon as a cold has been contracted and before it has become settled in the system, it will counteract the effect of the cold and greatly lessen its severity, and it is the only remedy that will do this. It acts in perfect harmony with nature and aids nature in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions, liquefying the mucus and causing its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs and restoring the system to a strong and healthy condition. No other remedy in the market possesses these remarkable properties. No other will cure a cold so quickly.

THROUGH SLEEPING CARS

THE BIG FOUR ROUTE TO THE WORLD'S FAIR.

We all love comfort, especially when traveling, and what a great comfort it is to be able to take a sleeping car at your own home which runs right through to Chicago without change and lands passengers at the entrance gate of the great World's Fair without a single change or transfer of any kind. How can this be accomplished? Why simply by asking your local agent for a ticket via the Big Four Route, which is absolutely the only line running through sleeping cars in connection with the E. T. V. & G. Railway and Queen & Crescent Route direct to the World's Fair grounds and landing passengers convenient to the World's Fair Hotel District. Through Sleeping Car leaves Macon 11:15 A. M., Atlanta 2:10 P. M., Rome 4:55 P. M., Chattanooga 7:25 P. M., and arrives at Chicago 5:15 P. M. Ask for tickets via Big Four Route and for further information address D. B. LEAF DECORATIONS.

HOW TO MAKE ROOMS ATTRACTIVE, ASSISTED BY NATURE.

How to Dry and Press the Leaves—To Decorate Door Panels—Uses For Real Branches—Process of Varnishing and Ironing.

[Copyright, 1903, by American Press Association.]

The hills and valleys are beginning to glow with the regal splendor of autumnal glory. Up and down the slopes of the country the forests will array themselves in harmonious tints, while here and there the color will be heightened by patches of evergreen and by the more gorgeous coloring of isolated maples scattered through the open meadows and pasture lands.

ened by patches of evergreen and by the more gorgeous coloring of isolated maples scattered through the open meadows and pasture lands.

The season is one never to be forgotten by the tourist who can take in the charming aspect of nature, at the same time reveling in the ripened fruitage of midsummer's growth, and be invigorated by the cool, bracing air of early fall. In the cities the autumn excursions to the mountains and wooded country have become a feature of railroad travel, and to return from places where, with prodigal generosity, such bits of brilliant color are scattered at one's very foot bringing no token of all this beautiful display seems so careless of the opportunities afforded that it is a just retribution upon such unappreciative individuals to have their abodes as bare of the exquisite adornment offered as the haunts of nature are after her gifts are all bestowed.

The varied tints of the maple, the rich leather tones of the oak, the crimson, green and gold of the woodbine, with the graceful painted plumes of the anemone, and a score of other kinds of foliage will supply an endless variety of decorative bits of color, which will retain their charm and beautify the home all through the winter season.

The usual way of collecting these autumn leaves is to gather them as they are scattered far and wide, loosened from their native branches by the wind. In this separate condition the leaves are most easily carried any distance and prepared for use. The simplest way to preserve them is to spread them carefully between the pages of old books or newspapers, allowing several sheets to separate the leaves and prevent molding from the moisture evaporating from the leaves. A few grasses may be collected and pressed to arrange with them or be dried in their natural form.

rate the leaves and prevent molding from the moisture evaporating from the leaves. A few grasses may be collected and pressed to arrange with them or be dried in their natural form.

A plain, light surfaced wall is made very attractive by a few sprays of bright leaves and wild vines or grasses to give variety and lighten the effect. These can be tied together with a ribbon and tacked up on the wall, or if a larger spray is desired than the short stems will permit of a piece of card can be used for a central foundation, taking care to cover this entirely by the mass of leaves, etc., allowing smaller leaves and grasses to relieve the margin with their more delicate outlines.

If a quicker method of drying and pressing the leaves is desired, a hot flat iron will answer the purpose, and if the iron is rubbed with beeswax before using the color of the leaves will be brighter, while a still greater luster can be imparted by varnishing the leaves with a thin transparent varnish. This can be applied to the freshly gathered leaves, which will curl somewhat when treated in this way, or it can be spread over the already pressed and dry ones, just to brighten the colors.

Perhaps among the pictures boarded up awaiting framing is some little sketch or lithograph of a quiet country landscape. If so, what is more fitting than a combination of nature and art in mutual decoration? Get a plain mat somewhat larger than the picture and a background of some very light tinted cardboard. Mount the picture upon this background, preferably in a lower corner of the mat opening, and lay around the uneven space a grouping of small bright autumn leaves. Fasten these in place with a little gum or paste at the back, and if you choose paint or draw in the same of the scene upon some appropriate space, and the result will be a tastefully framed picture that in its decorative setting harmonizes with the spirit of the scene.

If there is a room in the house where the woodwork is painted white and an enlivenment of its coldness would be desirable for the winter, let the spotless panels of the doors be relieved by the warmth of variegated maple leaves, and the desire is attained. In order to do this arrange the leaves upon the panels with a little gum upon the back in such a way that they look as if growing upon a branch; then taking a heavy piece of wood colored chenille lay this on in the same way, beginning at the top and laying it over the ends of the stems to form an imitation of a real branch, and it will produce a very pretty effect if carefully handled.

All these are combinations of single leaves, but a few real branches are very nice to put over the doors, and sometimes the boughs are so handsomely draped with foliage that it seems like desecration to strip off the leaves. Take some thick varnish or glue and apply with a brush a coat about the joints where the leaves grow on the branch. After it is well set lay the branch upon a table, and with a hot waxed flatiron press out each individual leaf, or varnish them if preferable. Branches of maple or sumac and mountain ash with the fruit left on will be very handsome when prepared in this way. D. CONINGS.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

The Faults of Woman as Seen Through a Man's Blue Glasses.

A man who has apparently just been left out of his maiden aunt's will sizes up the faults of our sex in heroic style. I would like to have women read his accusations and then ask, each one for herself, how much truth there is in them so far as she herself is personally concerned. This disgruntled male man affirms that women are spiteful to one another. Then he declares they are unwilling to wait till another person has finished speaking before they break in and take up the gab themselves. Moreover, they presume on their sex in their relations with men in a way that is altogether abominable, and this they do even in business matters. The typewriter girl wants to have shorter hours and to have her defects excused because she is a woman. Our critic then charges upon the sex because of "the indifference with which a woman will contemplate the fact that the convenience of others has been sacrificed to her caprice. Very observable in young women." Further, when persons call to see us we keep them waiting an unconscionable length of time before we make our appearance. We do not keep our engagements, and we have no sense of the importance of fulfilling our promises. Then after having knocked us down he proceeds to walk over us as follows: "What I do insist on, however, is this—in public the average woman shows an inconsiderateness, a disregard for the ordinary courtesies of existence (which amounts sometimes to positive insolence) to a degree not anywhere nearly approached by the average man." I may say that this has not been my experience in some nine years of traveling in the elevated railway cars twice a day with the average New York city man. Still, if there is any ground of truth in the masculine writer's accusations, it must be laid to women's unbusinesslike training and their having been kept heretofore secluded from the public in the so-called sacredness of home. Thus they take their home manners with them into public places. Men do not dare to, or they would get their heads knocked off.

Great-grandmother Van Nostrand celebrated her one hundred and fifth birthday at Millstone, N. J., a few days ago, amid the general rejoicing of the neighborhood, which takes as much pride in her as if she were the great-grandmother of all the inhabitants. Mrs. Van Nostrand preserves all her senses perfectly except that of hearing, which is slightly impaired. She is healthy, happy and jolly, and she attributes all this and her extreme age besides to the fact that she never wore a corset. She says other women might live to be as old as she is if they would give up this pernicious article of their wardrobe. But most women would rather not live to be 103 than to give up their corsets.

The Waltham watchmaking establishment employs 1,800 women among its 3,000 work people. The superintendent of the Waltham exhibit at the World's fair said of them, "In many lines of the work women are superior to men, and in all lines of the work women are more faithful than the men." Yet if that very superintendent needed a foreman for one of his departments he would select for the place some strip of a boy and put him up over the heads of the oldest and faithfullest women in the works and give him twice the pay of the best salaried among these excellent work women. It is so in every department of industry, such is the power of the sex superstition. This is the most discouraging feature of woman's attempt to rise industrially.

Advocates of the short dress reform do not insist that all women shall shorten the skirt whether they want to or not. They simply ask that women be permitted to do as they please about it. If a lady wishes to wear a short skirt for walking and for the street, they ask only that she be allowed to do it without martyrdom.

Alice Stone Blackwell tells a delicious little story in a late number of The Woman's Journal. It was town meeting day in Barton Landing, Vt. The ladies thereabouts had been tainted with the poison of woman suffrage notions, and a number of them determined to attend the meeting to see how the superior sex conducted itself on dignified public occasions. They accordingly attacked the hall in a body. At the same day and hour the schoolteacher of the place marshaled the pupils, male and female, of the political economy class and took them to the town hall also, that they might see how the sovereigns of this nation hold it level. Arrived at the building, they found their political rulers in a squabble and state of disorder only excelled by the famous scrapping match in the British parliament. Unpleasantness was in the air, plainly. To see how in the twinkling of an eye the members of the superior sex matched their feet off the desks, threw away their cigars, straightened themselves up, hushed their angry words and began cooing as gently as a dove on the arrival of the visitors was an object lesson both to those who did and did not believe in woman taking part in municipal government. ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

HORSE BREEDING.

Its Prospects in the Middle Section of the Union.

The Breeder's Gazette says: That there has been a marked falling off in the demand for stallions of the various draft breeds during the past few years is the testimony of all leading importers and breeders. Importations have practically ceased and sales of pure bred horses—except for those of outstanding merit—have been slow and at a materially lower range of values than were current a few years ago. That service fees should have fallen to a low point as a result of the wide distribution of entire horses—good, bad and indifferent—seeking the patronage of farmers, is not a matter for surprise, and with a view toward determining what lengths the demoralization of rates had extended and to ascertain also the general feeling in regard to the style of horses most in request this season The Gazette put out a short time since a query calculated to bring out the facts.

Several hundred good farmers and stockmen in the states of Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska were asked to advise us as to the kind of horses most generally patronized by owners of farm mares this season and to indicate the range of service fees. It is clear that service fees have fallen to a figure where the stallion keeper has to do some close figuring to "pay out." Those who have been seduced into paying a big price for a poor horse are of course in an unfavorable position. The mare is a rarely bred sire at least, and one knows just about what is to be expected from his service, and the mare is by no means the worst selling animal of the day. From the scrub stallions you do not know what will come. As between them and the ass the jack is to be preferred every time.

Big horses with style and quality are still commanding remunerative prices, as are also fine drivers, trained saddlers and choice coach and carriage stock. It is the great mass of weedy stock—unsound, blemished, poorly built and undressed horses, devoid of finish and quality, such as result from patronizing cheap mongrel or grade sires—that are a drag on the market.

If we may be allowed to perpetrate "an Irish bull," the kind of horse most in favor in many sections is the mule. Jacks have done a big season's work in many counties, and we must confess that those who have patronized them have, generally speaking, shown more sense than those who have bred good work mares to scrubby mongrel or nondescript stud horses. The jack is a rarely bred sire at least, and one knows just about what is to be expected from his service, and the mare is by no means the worst selling animal of the day. From the scrub stallions you do not know what will come. As between them and the ass the jack is to be preferred every time.

A summary of the reports to The Gazette would make the stallion fee in the states named average about $8. The price ranges all the way from $2 to $50. The reports show extremes of mixed breeding that are enough to drive one crazy. Horses in some sections have been nearly ruined by breeding draft mares to trotters. Many common farmers are attempting to get fast trotters. Not one in twenty succeeds, and a flood of horses no good for anything is poured upon the community, sending the price of them down so low that it does not just at present pay to breed a good horse in those localities.

In the midst of the confusion a few fixed conclusions can be arrived at. One is that pure bred, first class draft horses and carriage horses are always in demand, and trotters to a considerable extent, too, if one can be sure they are going to be fast. The Clydesdales, Percherons, French coach horses and trotters are the breeds most popular in the states indicated. There are also some Shires and Belgian drafts, with a faint sprinkling of thoroughbreds. The Hackney is practically unknown. Little attempt is made to develop breeds of saddle horses.

Pigs Need Fresh Earth.

The piggery ought to have a space of fresh soil that has not been trampled over for several years for the pigs to root in. Such soil helps to correct acidity of the stomach and keep the pig healthy. But where the rooting is over land filled with decomposing pig manure the pigs are sure to get some disease, and this is doubtless often the means by which the dreaded trichina is introduced. The pig likes to be cleanly. His rooting in fresh soil for roots and larva of insects does not disprove his preference for cleanliness.—American Cultivator.

Live Stock Points.

A poultry raiser says he bought three pairs of fancy birds from a breeder of approved reputation and turned them into his chicken houses with the rest of his flock. He supposed they were all right from the good name of the fashionable breeder. But in a very short time his whole premises began to fairly crawl off with chicken lice. The vermin had been spread by the six fowls bought of the fancy breeder. A man who breeds poultry for sale and sends them away covered with vermin—well, he is another man that will never go to heaven.

An old overworked horse always puts one fore foot straight out in front of him when he stands still, as if to rest upon it. Such a horse is a pathetic sight. The most cattle lost by exposure last winter were, curiously enough, in Louisiana. The cattle were left to run wild and got no care, a severe winter came on, and the owners of those animals lost them through pure neglect.

If a calf bunts the pail over when you are feeding it, don't fly into a rage and kick the calf. That is exactly how it bunts its mother's udder to make the milk give down.

The display of horses and cattle, sheep and swine, at the World's fair will continue every day in the livestock pavilion until the close of the exposition, Oct. 28. One of the most interesting features is the fine display of mules and jacks. The opportunity to compare the Illinois mule with that raised in the south will be a good one. It is to be hoped, too, that the attention of farmers will be attracted more to the possibilities that lie in the working mule. He will be far more valuable on farms than the ordinary small scrub horse is.

THE HARD TIMES ARE OVER

At last. The consumer has been squeezed long and hard by the giant monopolies of manufactures, but now the panic-stricken and overloaded manufacturers and importers are dumping their products as fast as they can, which means that prices are now being which we propose to send to you, transportation paid. The little darling rests against a pillow, and is in the act of drawing off its pink sock, the mate of which has been pulled off and hung aside with a triumphant yelp. The flesh tints are perfect, and the eyes follow you, no matter where you stand. The exquisite reproductions of this greatest painting of Ida Waugh (the most celebrated of modern painters of baby life) are to be given to those who subscribe to Debow's Family Magazine for 1893. The reproductions cannot be sold from the original, which cost $400, and are the same size (17 1/2 inches). The baby is life size, and absolutely lifelike. We have also in preparation, to present to our subscribers during 1893, other great pictures by such artists as Percy Moran, David Humphrey, Louis Deschamps, and others of world-wide renown. Take only two examples of what we did during the past year. "A Yard of Fustian," and "A White House Orchid" by the wife of President Harrison, and you will see what our promises mean.

Those who subscribe for Debow's Family Magazine for 1893 will possess a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides a Magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep everyone posted on all the topics of the day, and all the facts and different points of interest about the household, business, farming, interesting reading matter, both home and gay, for the whole family; and while Debow's is a fashion Magazine, the fashion pages are perfect, and we give you, free of cost, all the terms you wish to use during the year, in any case you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $5, and you will really get over $25 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Debow, 15 West 1st St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send 10 cents for a specimen copy.

HEYWOOD'S Celebrities

At Walton's Opera House

SATURDAY night, October 7th.

Secure your tickets now or you'll get left.

REMEMBER that Dr. Appleman will be at the Myers House next Tuesday, the 10th.

THE railroad companies are doing now what they ought to have done at first—making the rate to Chicago one fare for the round-trip. You can now go from Stanford any day in the week for about $10.

CAPT. E. T. ROCHESTER has sold his farm of 90 acres with residence near the water works, to J. S. Hundley at $90, possession to be given Nov. 15, when it is said the captain and family will remove to Texas.

TO TEACHERS.—After raising the 10 small districts in Lincoln county to a basis of 45 pupils so as to have all public schools taught five months the present school year, the general per capita of this county is $2.53. W. F. McClary.

SAM McHARGUE, who killed the deputy sheriff of Whitley at Corbin and got a change of venue to Knox county, where he was given 15 years, was taken from here to the penitentiary Tuesday, the court of appeals having affirmed the decision. Since his trial he has been in jail here.

B. H. DANKS, the energetic jeweler, has offered to give a prize, a beautiful, solid silver cup, to the horse and reel squad of firemen that can run a certain distance and make a coupling first. The time for the trial and distance to be run will be fixed later on. This will afford some amusement for the town people as well as give the boys practice and Danks a little advertising.

RESERVED seat tickets to the musical performance to be given by the Heywood Celebrities at Walton's Opera House to-morrow, Saturday night, are being rapidly engaged at McRoberts' Drug Store. Mr. J. S. Wells is advance salesman and he will serve you promptly and in his politest manner. The usual charge is $1, but the Opera House management decided not to raise the price from 75 cents.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—George Ferrell, a reputable colored man, says he was held up as he was going to his home at E. T. Pence's, on the cut-off pike, Monday night, by three men, one of whom put a pistol in his face and grabbed him by the collar, while the other two went through his pockets, taking all the money he had, $2.05, and his knife. He says he was too scared to tell whether the men were white or black, but thinks they were white.

THE Marlowes, Robert and George, the Bell county scamps, who fired into a car on the Belt Line railroad at Middleboro and killed a lady instead of the man they were trying to assassinate, were taken to Pineville from the jail here Wednesday, for trial. They are a tough looking pair and if countenance is any indication of the character, they deserve to be hung without judge, jury or the benefit of the clergy.

MARBLE.—Mr. J. H. Sowder, the real-estate man, has had polished pieces of the marble found on his 150 acre tract of land, 2 miles from Crab Orchard on the L. & N., and it shows a beautiful variegated face susceptible of a high polish. It is like the Tennessee marble and contains 67 per cent. of lime. Mr. Sowder thinks there is a fortune in it and proposes to organize a company and work the quarries, which seem to be inexhaustible, for all they are worth.

THE last prisoner in the Whitley county jail was released this morning. The door is now standing wide open. This is a prohibition county and prohibition pays. We challenge comparison with any other county in the State.—Williamsburg Herald. This all sounds very nicely, but the editor forgot to say, if he knew it, that at the time he wrote the article Whitley had one or more prisoners in the Lincoln jail, because her own is not sufficiently secure to hold them.

GO IT GIRLS.—The author of the Wortham law wouldn't swear that he knows just what that statute means, but he thinks Judge Saufley is right when he holds that its provisions apply to progressive euchre. If Judge Saufley is correct in this, then so much the worse for the Wortham act. This is not an age and Kentucky is not the place when and where the blue laws can be revived and enforced. Go ahead with your progressive euchre, ladies.—Courier-Journal.

THE Advocate excuses its verdant policeman for arresting a circus actor whose part was to play drunk, by claiming that they are so unaccustomed to seeing a drunk that they are unable to detect the real from the assumed, adding that Stanford has had more experience in that line. We do not know from personal observation, but we are told that fully as many or more drunken men are seen on the streets of pharisaical Danville as there are in Stanford. It is said that there are 26 places in that town where whisky can be obtained. There are only three in Stanford and they pay nearly $1,000 apiece for the privilege.

MONDAY, county court day, would be a mighty good time for you to pay your account at this office. Suppose you do so.

THE Q. & C. will sell round-trip tickets to Louisville Oct. 9 to 14, good for return on the 16th, at low rates on account of the Jockey Club Races.

THE Odd Fellows of Lodge No. 56 are requested to meet to-night to consider the question of going in a body to the meeting of the Grand Lodge at Lexington next week. Messrs. A. C. Sine, Wm. Daugherty and J. A. Allen are the regular delegates, but a good many others wish to attend and will likely do so escorted by the Uniformed Stanford Gold Band.

HON. J. W. H. MILLER and R. C. Warren have returned from a visit to Casey, where they found the outlook for a full democratic vote for Mr. Miller for senator very favorable and they feel very much encouraged. There is no republican opposition to our ticket so far. It is reported that Hon. G. M. Davison, of Lincoln, will not run and that Hon. F. P. Combest, of Casey, is not in condition to do so. The democrats should not lay the flattering unction to their souls that there will be no opposition. There will be if there is a ghost of a chance for a republican, so the safest plan is to keep your eyes skinned and work just as if the woods were full of candidates.

ABOUT 12 o'clock Wednesday night three men went to Henry Salter's house, near the water works, and demanded entrance. Salter was not at home and his wife becoming alarmed peeped through the window and saw three white men. It was so dark she did not recognize them, but could tell that they were very drunk. They knocked again and threatened to break in and still it was not opened to them. Becoming enraged at this the scoundrels threw a large rock against the door, breaking it. Salter's wife began to hallow murder, while her little boy ran to get Mr. Rount at the water works, but when he arrived the men had gone and fortunately for them he did not get a glance of them. Salter is an unusually good darkey and did not deserve such treatment from the white devils, who ought to be made to pay dearly for their meanness.

THE Court of Claims finished its labors Tuesday and adjourned till Nov. 25. W. M. Bright was re-elected treasurer and qualified with J. B. Owsley security. The committee to let the pauper practice was authorized to do so as before, to the lowest bidder in each precinct. Dr. W. M. Doores was elected poor-house physician at $147.50 a year. Eld. J. G. Livingston was allowed $25 for preaching to the paupers who were authorized to select their own preacher for the next year. W. E. Varnon was allowed $900 as county judge, J. B. Paxton $700 as county attorney and W. F. McClary $900 as superintendent of schools to be paid out of the treasury less 7 per cent. discount. Road claims were made payable at once and all others by Jan. 1, 1894. For file boxes, &c. for the county clerk's office $234 was allowed and $20 each for the pauper idiots who have been so adjudged. A number of paupers were allowed from $3 to $6 a month and still others ordered to the poor-house. During the year all the court-house rooms have been improved and new furniture added, water has been placed in the building the jail, and residence painted and a perfect system of sewerage added to the jail. With all this the claims are less than last year, the total being about $10,000. The county is now on a cash paying basis and the claims allowed will either be deducted from the taxes or paid in full if the claimant owes no taxes.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—H. C. Rowlett, who lacks a year of being a man in the eyes of the law, and Miss Nannie Trimble, a sweet seventeen, were married Wednesday at the bride's father's, Mr. James F. Trimble.

—At Lafayette, Ind., next Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Andrew of that city will celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary. Mr. Andrew is 87 and his wife 84, and both in excellent health.

—Fourteen years ago George Mesmer and Lou Bishop, were married. Seven years afterwards he disappeared and after three years Mrs. Mesmer married Henry Hickman. This week Mesmer returned to Memphis and the two husbands held a conference and the woman was asked to make a choice. She chose husband No. 1, but he flew again. Husband No. 2 refuses to return and the husbandless woman is now mourning both.

—Mr. George S. Carpenter and Mrs. Susan Baughman were married at Mr. John M. Hall's Wednesday evening at 7:30 by Rev. A. V. Sizemore in the presence of a few select friends. Afterwards a reception was given them at the Carpenter House, where the new couple will make their home. The marriage is not a surprise, since "Carp" has been paying his devotion for years to the lovely little widow, who at last consented to make him a very happy man. May roses line their pathway.

—A West Virginia lover from the mountains of away-back ran off with the girl of his choice, a peach-cheeked damsel of 17. At last they went off, the girl riding a dignified spotted steed without saddle while her lover walked by her side. When they arrived at Parkersburg it was found that the girl was too young to be granted license and she burst in a flood of tears. The by-standers became interested, a collection was taken up and more than enough money raised to take the pair to a State where the laws of marriage are more lax and they left on the train, folded in each other's arms.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—S. H. Shanks bought of Milton Warren a horse for $75.

—James Martin sold to J. C. Johnson, of Boyle, 5 fat cattle at 24c.

—W. H. Dudderar sold to E. P. Woods four 1,100-pound cattle at 33c.

—J. D. Goech sold to Charley Spoonamore 200 bushels of rye at 35c.

—James E. Bibb sold to Light Hanson, of Boyle, a combined gelding for $200.

—Ben Gaines, Jr. has rented the John Smith farm of 200 acres on the Lancaster pike for $500.

—Col. D. W. Tribble has rented the Rayburn farm of 320 acres for $661.—Richmond Climax.

—The Lexington races will be held as usual. Latonia couldn't gobble up all the racing in Kentucky.

—The recent rains have helped grass wonderfully and now the pastures are as green as they usually are in May.

—Hogs are more active in Cincinnati with tops at 6.85; cattle are in fair demand with best shippers at 4 1/2 and so are sheep at 1 1/2 to 3 1/2.

—J. S. Owsley, Sr. bought of James Dudderar two 2-year old mules at $55; one from J. G. Lynn at $60, and of John Smith two at $50.

—The Georgetown Times reports sales of 33 head of 1,670 pound cattle at 4 1/2; 42 yearlings at $21.25 a head; 500 stock ewes at $2.40 to $2.95 and a lot of late lambs at $2.65.

—Beazley Bros. & Hays are now working their stallion, Silver Tip, in harness and goes like a top. Why not work him up and make him a combined stallion for next year?

—A match race has been practically arranged to be run Oct. 16 at Linden, N. J., between Tammany, with 127 pounds; Lamplighter 119, and Rudolph, the crack westerner, 114 pounds.

—The prospects are favorable that Arion and Directum will have a match race for $10,000 a side in the near future. Should they come together some record breaking may be expected.

—It took 43 self-binders to cut the 10,000 acres of wheat on the farm of N. G. Larimore in North Dakota this season and 190 binders were used to cut the 54,000 acres on the great Dairymple farm.

—Remember that the Lexington trots begin to-morrow with a great program, including a contest for the two-year-old branch of the great Futurity Stake worth $5,000.

—The fall meeting of the Louisville Jockey Club will be run off at Louisville after all. The attempt to concentrate all the racing in Kentucky at Latonia was so unpopular that the officials there got scared and decided to close their meeting according to programme.

—D. C. Terhune paid $6,216.25 for 100 mule colts Tuesday at Harrodsburg and shipped them to James Guthrie, of Shelbyville. They were carefully picked over six counties and several good judges pronounced them the finest lot of sugar stock seen in this country for many years.

—Ewell Renaker bought 1,200 bushels of potatoes at 50 cents. Jos. Kindig, of Pennsylvania, purchased in Mt. Sterling, court day, 48 mule colts at an average of $28. J. D. Duvall has bought for Tennessee parties 40 weanling mules at $55.

W. B. Kidd bought a large number of 1,450 to 1,630 pound cattle at 4 1/2 to 4 1/2.—Winchester Democrat.

—All who go to Lexington next Monday, County Court day, should go out to the Fair Grounds in the afternoon and see the greatest three-year-olds in America trot for the largest purse ever given to either trotters or runners in Kentucky—the $12,500 Stallion Representative Stake. Who will win it is the question that puzzles the best horsemen in America.

THE Q. & C. and Louisville Southern will sell round-trip tickets to Lexington, from Cincinnati, Louisville and all points in Kentucky and Tennessee, Oct. 6 to 14 at one fare, on account of the trotting meeting. Call on agents for particulars W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A., Cincinnati.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
